About Raipur

Raipur is the Capital of Chhattisgarh, and New Raipur is the New Capital of Chhattisgarh in the making. New Raipur is the fourth planned city of India, with wide roads and miles of greenery and is pollution-free. It is the first integrated and smart city in the country. A cosmopolitan city which is also the hub of higher education hosts IIM, IIT, IIIT, National Law University, CIPET, NIT and AIIMS. In addition, it also hosts most National and International Brands of Food and Retail Outlets.

About the Faculty of Arts & Humanities

The Faculty of Arts and Humanities at Kalinga University stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence and creative expression, encompassing ten dynamic departments. Our mission is rooted in the holistic development of students, nurturing critical thinking, creativity, and a deep sense of social responsibility. We offer a multidisciplinary academic environment that goes beyond classroom learning, integrating a wide range of co-curricular and experiential activities. A defining feature of our academic calendar is the annual national conference, which attracts participants from across India, encouraging the exchange of innovative ideas and fostering scholarly dialogue. Our commitment to academic and industrial collaborations further strengthens the practical and interdisciplinary dimensions of our programs. Through our integrated approach to education, the Faculty of Arts and Humanities remains committed to shaping socially conscious, research-driven, and industry-ready graduates. As we continue to expand our partnerships and initiatives, we reaffirm our vision to be a leading centre for liberal arts education that blends tradition with innovation.

About the National Conference

The global landscape is undergoing profound transformations driven by environmental challenges, technological advances, social inequalities, and shifting political dynamics. In this context, the pursuit of a sustainable future requires a multidisciplinary and inclusive approach—one that bridges the spheres of culture, society, and governance.

This conference aims to create a vibrant platform for scholars, policymakers, practitioners, and community leaders to engage in critical dialogue about how we can transition toward a more just, resilient, and sustainable world. By examining the intersections of cultural narratives, social systems, and governance models, the event seeks to challenge conventional paradigms and propose innovative solutions to the complex challenges of our time. Culture shapes our values, beliefs, and behaviors; society reflects our collective organization and resilience; governance determines how power and resources are distributed. Understanding the transition toward sustainability across these dimensions is essential for meaningful change. This conference invites contributions that explore emerging trends, indigenous knowledge systems, participatory governance, social justice, and the role of education, media, and the arts in shaping sustainable futures.

THIS CONFERENCE AIMS TO-

1. Foster interdisciplinary dialogue on sustainability by bridging the domains of culture, society, and governance.
2. Explore innovative models and frameworks for sustainable development that are inclusive, just, and future-focused.
3. Critically examine the role of culture in shaping sustainability practices, identities, and narratives.
4. Highlight the impact of social structures and inequalities on sustainability efforts and transitions.
5. Strengthen participatory governance mechanisms that empower communities and enhance accountability.
6. Promote knowledge exchange between scholars, policymakers, activists, and practitioners working on sustainability.
7. Incorporate indigenous knowledge and local practices into global sustainability discourse.
8. Encourage creative and artistic approaches to imagining and building sustainable futures.
9. Facilitate policy-oriented discussions that translate academic research into actionable strategies.
10. Build networks and collaborations among diverse stakeholders for long-term, cross-sectoral sustainability initiatives.
